I'll Sing you a

Song of

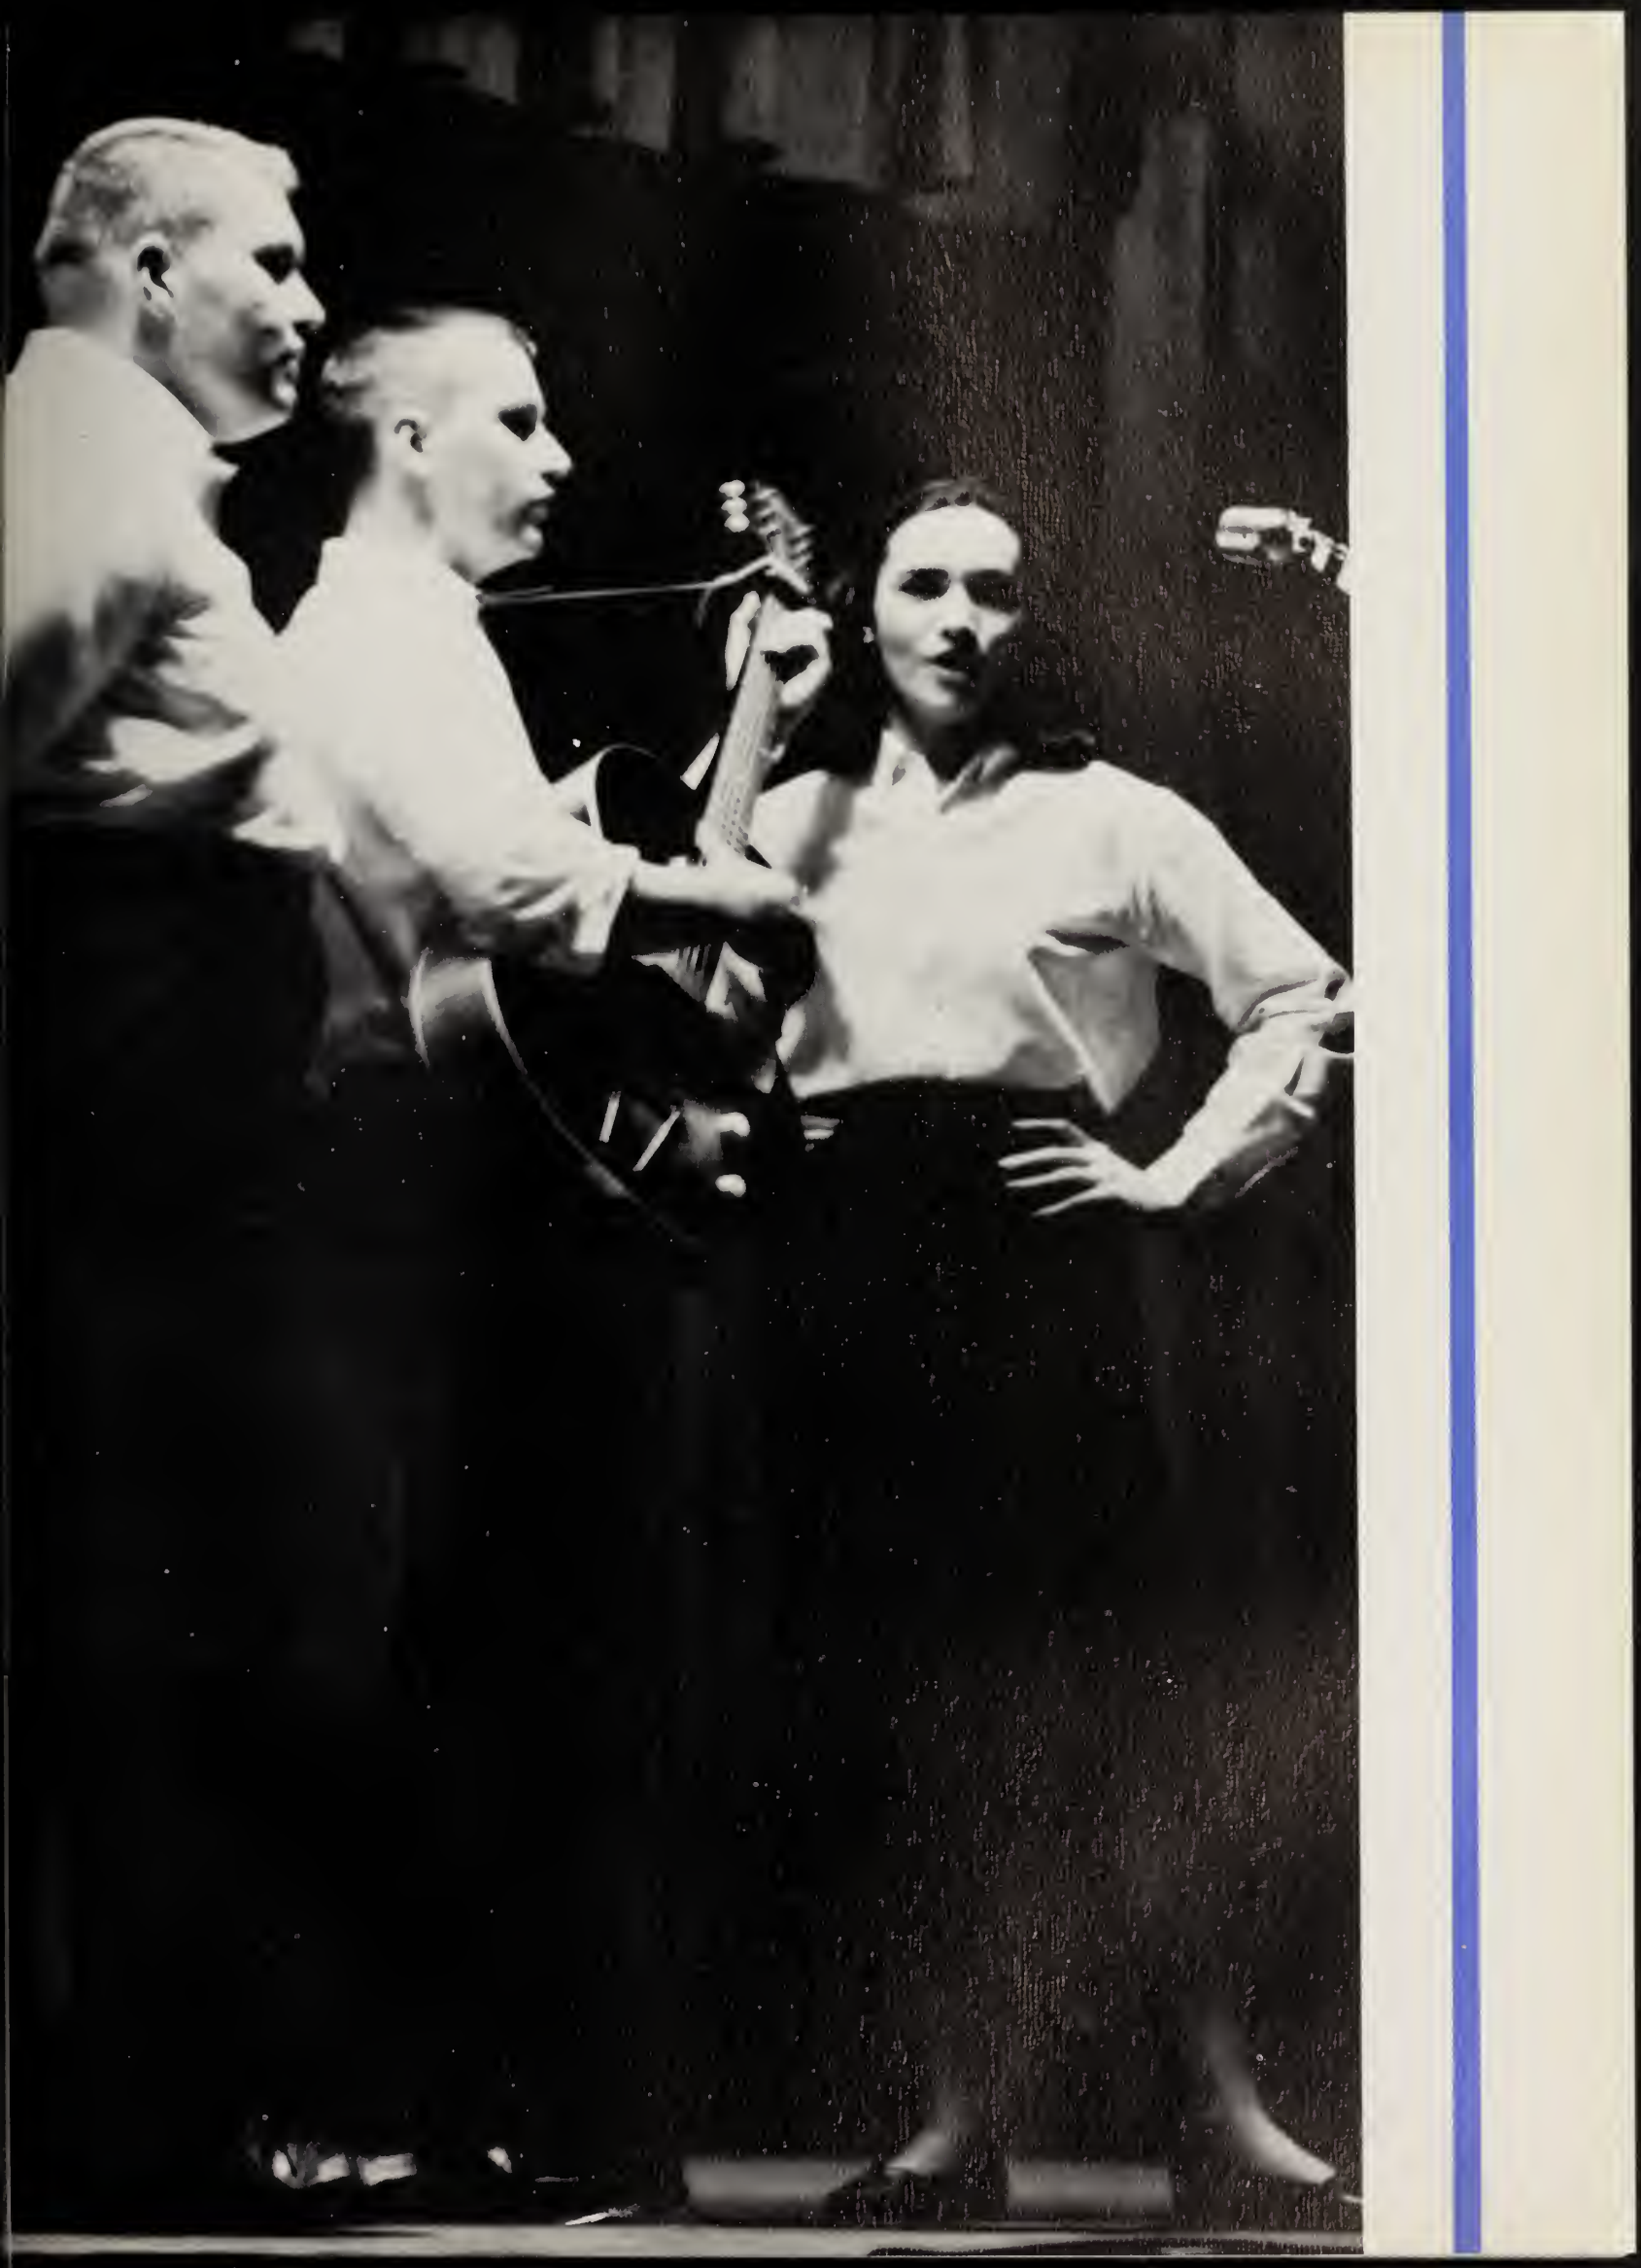
in the 1963 Merrimackan

A harmony known only to one

I'll sing you a song of college days, a single theme drawn from a varied collection of mixed chords, tempos and moods. From all places its notes, torn from scattered voices, gather, arrange themselves and enter, some to grope, some to stumble, others to glide freely, but all from their places to enrich the growing modulation.

Skilled hands appear, to guide, to coax, to shape. Shades of dissonance are chipped away; the notes ring clearer and truer. A beat falls into a rhyme and weaves its way forward with easy grace. It finds a quick tempo, breaks off into a sudden twist, then checks itself and flows into a measured, solemn chant. It judges, it discovers, and it rejects. It pauses to listen, then it sings again with a sound more pure and certain. The theme drives forward, crashes into the weighty and slips into the obscure, but begins again to swell. The rhythm surges more profound and even, ready to enter into the future. The composition is complete; the melody is one, our song of our years, our song of Merrimack.



From buildings does our song burst . . .

Our music is formed within these walls and it tells of them and of the long hours spent in classes . . .

and of the endless notes and of the restlessness of hot days and of white towering columns and also of the serenity and quietness of holy places . . .

. . . Sung within these walls . . .

FACULTY

The song is mine, yet its theme has been given by the men and women who have taken my tentative phrases and led them to strength and beauty. Not one of them but all have helped to form my melody. Each guides one phase, a single chord, to show me the why and the how . . . all leading to the harmonious.

VICE-PRESIDENT

New to Merrimack, the Reverend John Aherne, O.S.A., as Vice-President, exercises firm and confident control over the academic operations of the College. In this capacity, Fr. Aherne acts as an assistant to the President in the formation of school policies and as an intermediary between the faculty and the executive board of the College. It is through his personal understanding of the problems of both the faculty and students that Fr. Aherne is able to satisfy the requirements of his office. For the admirable work he has been doing the gratitude of the students is extended to him.

The promulgation and enactment of the policies of Merrimack College are largely the responsibility of one man, the Very Reverend Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A., Ph.D., our distinguished Father President. His guiding hand coordinates the varied activities of Merrimack College and controls its blueprint for rapid growth. This guidance has resulted in an educational achievement which is a monument to this man. His unselfish devotion to the best interests of the college and its students merit him the sincere appreciation and gratitude of all.

PRESIDENT

Administration with wisdom and foresight is an invaluable asset to any institution. The history of Merrimack College, both materially and intellectually, testifies to the ability and devotion of its administrators, the Board of Trustees. Their supervision over the growth of our college, and their control of its policies has been firm, unselfish and capable. For their efforts on our behalf, we are grateful.

The Rev. John M. Driscoll, O.S.A., is Prior of the Monastary of Our Lady of Good Counsel at Merrimack College. Under his capable guidance the Augustinian Fathers at Austin Hall live by the true Christian spirit and by the motto of Merrimack — "through knowledge to wisdom." His responsible fulfilling of this important office is appreciated by both the priests and the students.

ADMINISTRATORS

Richard Cardinal Cushing is admired and respected throughout the world as an outstanding leader of the Church. Students of Merrimack owe a special debt of gratitude to his untiring zeal and generosity, for it was due to his interest in the furtherance of American Catholic college education that Merrimack College was founded. His guidance has seen this institution, within the span of sixteen years, achieve international reputation.

The Very Reverend James A. Donellon, O.S.A., A.B., M.S., Ph.D., serves the Augustinian Order and those under its care in several capacities. He is Prior Provincial of the Province of Saint Thomas of Villanova, elected by a vote of qualified Province members. As such, he is in charge of the many parishes and seminaries in the Eastern Province and is directly responsible to Rome. Father Donellon has special significance for Merrimack as Chairman of its Board of Trustees, a task especially challenging in the growing years of our school.

A typical co-ed wakes happily each morning to the inviting aroma of a delicious breakfast served to her in bed.

I'm very sorry sir, but take this receipt, and we'll have your Yogi Bear coloring book within days.

And furthermore, if you hide my beanie once more, I'll . . . I'll . . .

Ah, alone at last, I sit at thy feet sans beanie, sans button, sans sophomore.

My name is — uh . . . my name is-mmmmmm . . . oh well, I'll go on to the next question: maybe it'll come to me later.

With the exception of this, my daughter is a perfectly normal American co-ed. And you ought to see her go in the snow.

"Where did you get that hat? Where did you get that smile? Wher'er you go they'll shout, Hello! Where did you get that hat?"

Now look, I'll give you a tip. Sign on the dotted line for six fun-filled weeks of sun and sand at Quantico.

Beanies a memory . . . the present, a chant of pompous thought, high pitched giggles and crew-hats all in a row—Sophomores, the last of the wise fools harvested every Fall . . . To the Freshman, profound, authoritative, unavoidable nuisances. To others, humorous reminders of the past, sketched in mistaken wisdom. But to themselves, the grand illusion of the noble ones crew-hatted into omniscience and omnipotence.

Blast out your call—sound the trumpet . . . your song—sending frightened Freshmen to court to the refrain "Insubordination"—gives tempo to the one great song, and quickens my melody.

What kind of madness is this? We know the Freshmen sometimes take orientation lightly and develop pie-in-the-sky ideas, but now they're getting carried away to the ridiculous. They must know you're supposed to go under the limbo stick.

Somehow, we're not so sure these Sophomore hats are assets . . . this orientation business is tiring.

Now, I'm going to explain this just once more . . . this is Jack, this is Jacqueline, these are Caroline and John-John. These are Teddy and Bobby, and all those little ones are the rest of the team.

In the course of every day there is a short period set aside for relaxation. This student seems intent on achieving a blankness of mind equal to that of the wall behind him.

CAMPUS LIFE

And I'll sing of men with chalk-smeared hands, of blue beanies and yellow buttons, of crazy folded slouch hats, of swirling music, guided couples and rose carnations, of twisting footballs and torn jerseys . . . and I'll sing of raucus club meetings and of shrouded voices through stained glass and of how, woven through all is the sound of music.

MERRIMACKAN

Willingness and cooperation are among the outstanding characteristics of the yearbook staff. It is through their enthnsiasm that this book of memories has becǿme a reality and a fitting tribnte by the class of '63 to its alma mater. Meeting deadlines, prodncing clever captions and literary passages are among the well performed tasks of the staff. They have given generously of their time to a most rewarding, but at times maddening, undertaking.

Laurel Pelkey, Jean Carey and Frank Welch, Assistant Editors, peruse the finished product with senses of satisfaction in a job well done.

Assistant Editors Maxine Seretna, Ted Chiricos and Anne Marie O'Connor combine their efforts to meet an impending deadline.

With a characteristic expression John Perreault ponders an editorial decision while Father Donald Burt, moderator, cryptically comments on the progress of the 1963 Merrimackan.

These prominent and efficient members of the office staff render an invaluable service in every phase of the yearbook's development through their typing skills.

Editor John Perreault, aided by Mike Twomey, Assistant Editor, and Joe McHugh, Business Manager, is the guiding hand behind this year's publication.

WARRIOR

In the fall of 1962 Peg Coughlin and Ernie Kelly ended a sueeessful year as co-editors of the Warrior. The new position of editor-in-chief is held by Dave Wihry who will be assisted by the newly organized editorial board.

The editorial staff for 1961-62 worked in a period of transition. Coinciding with collegiate expansion, the paper grew larger in its bi-weekly status. The editors, therefore, felt that they could do a more effective job by publishing weekly editions.

The editorial board is comprised of Dave Wihry, Tim Samway, Eileen Jennings and Betsy Brown. These students express the Warrior's opinions on issues of current interest on campus and give the final O.K. before the paper goes to press.

Since its initiation in 1951 as a monthly newsletter, the Warrior has strived to become the true voice of the student body. Each year it has come closer to its goal through the hard work of a handful of students who were interested in improving its news and literary content as well as enlarging circulation and advertising. It has grown from a monthly paper to bi-weekly to weekly this past September. Now, through this opportunity to present live news to the student body, the Warrior can function as a truly effective college newspaper.

The Warrior, Merrimaek's official newspaper, joined the ranks of the weeklies in September, 1962. This was an important step necessary to eoineide with the growth of the eollege and increases in advertising and alumni eireulation. The Warrior staff is comprised of students representing every class. They work in various departments, such as news, features, sports, advertising, eireulation. eopy reading, and typing. Students interested in journalism are, therefore, presented with the challenge of aetual newspaper experienee.

CARILLON

During the past few years, the Carillon has enlarged its scope to include all types of literary endeavors—poetry, essays, short stories, and drama. Students in every major field from English to Engineering contribute to the Carillon. Thus, the literary magazine represents all of Merrimack College, not just one facet. By participating in a national literary exchange program, the Carillon presents our college to universities and colleges throughout the United States.

Carillon editor Millie Matasso receives some helpful assistance and perhaps a few words of wisdom from last year's experienced editor, John Perreault.

As literature reflects a people, so does the Carillon reflect the student body of Merrimack College. It is a literary magazine composed solely of manuscripts solicited from the students. Mrs. Yvonne Ground, faculty moderator, works in close affiliation with its staff in preparing material for publication. The magazine is well-received and highly esteemed on campus.

PENMAN CLUB

The Penman Club, under the well-qualified direction of Mrs. Yvonne Ground, aids those students interested in creative writing. Self-expression and criticism are the means used by the group to perfect the literary work of its members.

Literary Club members are students interested in developing knowledge and appreciation of the various phases of literature. During the year they have opportunities to listen to recorded poetry and drama and to attend plays and musical features in Boston.

LITERARY CLUB

BENZENE RING

The Benzene Ring Society affords the students interested in chemistry an opportunity to secure the intellectual stimulation that arises from professional association, and to provide the experience necessary in preparing and presenting technical material before fellow students.

The Caducean Club, one of the more prominent clubs on campus, has as its purpose the provision of an outlet for desires and aspirations of members interested in the biological field, and offers those initial contacts with the profession that are not included in the college curriculum. Prominent speakers and field trips help to instill new ideas in its members.

CADUCEAN CLUB

AEGIDIANS

The Aegidians is the education club of Merrimack College and is composed of those members of the student body who are interested in entering the teaching profession. Prominent speakers in the field of education as well as recent graduates of the educational department keep the Aegidians informed of the latest requirements, techniques, and problems of their chosen field.

DORMITORY COUNCIL

The Women's Dormitory Council is a full-fledged club with all the rights and duties attached. Composed of twenty members, five coeds representing each class, the Council functions in a many-sided capacity which includes: intermediary between the Dean of Women's Office and the dorm coeds; reviewer of disciplinary measures; and official sponsor of any dormitory social, cultural or religious event.

MERRIMACK SOCIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

The Merrimack Sociological Society is comprised of students interested in the behavioral sciences. The basic objective of the organization is to enhance and broaden these academic pursuits by providing its members with the depth and scope attendant to various co-curricular activities. This opportunity is afforded its members by presenting guest speakers, panel discussions and visits to various social, political and economic institutions.

The purpose of the Cultural Heritage Club is to examine and discuss all facets of our heritage including actnal contact with our history, arts, politics, and foreign affairs. The club attends plays and lectures and sponsors trips to places of historical interest in the area in an attempt to develop a greater knowledge and appreciation of our culture.

CULTURAL HERITAGE CLUB

BUSINESS CLUB

The aim of the Business Club is to provide the student with a realistic understanding of the business world. In addition to solving hypothetical textbook cases, the student is presented with the practical problems of modern day business. The organization is also social in that it sponsors a dinner conference and field trips to neighboring industrial concerns.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Secretarial Science Club has been organized with a three-fold aim: it fosters the spiritual, social and academic formation of its members. The outstanding feature of the organization is the fashion show, presented annually, the profits of which are donated to the school building fund.

ACCOUNTING CLUB

The chief function of the Accounting Club is the maintenance of a close unity among the students, faculty and graduate accountants practicing in the area. This unity augments and amplifies the interest of members by providing a lively contact with the business world. Traditionally, the society closes its yearly activities with a banquet where speakers include members of the faculty and distinguished business men.

PHYSICS SOCIETY

The Physics Society affords its members a means of social contact with the practicing members of their profession. This is achieved by providing field trips, films and lectures which are conducted not only by Merrimack faculty but also by guest speakers from neighboring universities. Its members strive to develop a greater knowledge and appreciation of the science of physics.

EPSILON DELTA SOCIETY

The Epsilon Delta Society is concerned with the development of an interest in, and the understanding of, mathematics. It is a means through which those interested in the field are acquainted with the modern principles and applications of their subject. Members gain actual knowledge from their peers by means of student lectures.

The Engineering Guild, composed totally of members of the Engineering Department, has two divisions: the American Institute of Electrical Engineering and the Civil Engineering Guild. The Guild provides and encourages contact between student engineers and practicing members of the profession. Prominent on the fall social calendar is the Transit Trot, one of the most unique and well-received functions on campus which is sponsored annually by the Guild.

ENGINEERING GUILD

PHI KAPPA THETA

Phi Kappa Theta, a senior member of the National Interfraternity Conference, is the continuation of two great national fraternities: Phi Kappa, founded at Brown University in 1889, and Theta Kappa Phi, founded at Lehigh University in 1919.

The Massachusetts Omega Chapter, located at Merrimack College, is one of more than sixty chapters and colonies of Phi Kappa Theta located in twenty-six states across the country. The alumni of Phi Kappa Theta number almost twenty thousand and are located throughout the world, many in positions of national prominence. The purpose of Phi Kappa Theta is to bring college men into brotherly relationships, to promote the spirit of good fellowship, to encourage the attainment of high scholastic standing and to offer to each and every member the training and environment appropriate to the University scholar and gentleman.

This year Sigma Beta Kappa was under the capable direction of Fred Fossa '63, President; Joe Buck '64, Vice-President; Larry Gandreau '63, Treasurer; Ron Gandreault '63, Secretary; and Joe McHugh '63, National Representative.

Among the most prominent organizations on campus is Sigma Beta Kappa. Merrimack's oldest national social fraternity. Based upon Catholic ideals, the fraternity strives to develop a strong sense of morality within its brothers through a well-balanced religious and social program. Conpled with character development and campus leadership, Sigma Beta Kappa serves the college as the official welcoming committee and as hosts for many of Merrimack's social functions. Through a bi-annual, carefully screened pledging system, SBK offers the men of Merrimack an opportunity to investigate and ultimately to participate in the benefits of this national Catholic fraternal organization.

SIGMA BETA KAPPA

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, which has been functioning since Merrimack's beginning, has progressed in membership, prestige, and influence coinciding with the growth of student enrollment. Fifteen members, six from the Senior Class and three from each of the underclasses, work together to make the Council a more effective instrument in representing the student body.

Father William Murray, O.S.A., moderator, and Kathleen Carroll, chairman, discuss important developments which have arisen during a Council meeting. The relationship between moderator and organization is essential for the proper functioning of any organization.

Councilor Stitch Tardiff, chairman of the Student Council Constitution Committee, enlists the aid of Council member Eileen Jennings in completing the final draft of the Constitution. This is only one of the subsidiary committees formed to facilitate Council organization.

Council officers elected by their fellow members for 1962-63 are Nancy Galland, Secretary; Brian Slowey, Vice-Chairman; Kathleen Carroll, Chairman; and Paul Boucher, Treasurer. The officers, each with specific duties, co-ordinate various activities and problems which confront the Council.

ON-STAGERS

The On-Stagers' most recent production was The Male Animal by James Thurber. The play is a comedy dealing with the problems faced by a college professor whose world begins to crumble when he tries to fight for his beliefs.

In every production there are two casts: one behind the scenes and one in the spotlight. Without the former the latter would have no spotlight in which to stand. Therefore. all participants deserve equal credit.

The purpose of the On-Stagers is to promote the intellectual as well as the social development of the individual by training him in the many and varied phases of modern play production.

One of Merrimack College's best good will emissaries, the Choral Society, is primarily an organization formed for the enjoyment of those who are to some degree vocally talented. The group bi-annually entertains students, church organizations, and hospitals, spreading Merrimack's name throughout Massachusetts and other states. This year's Christmas concert consisted of the traditional and popular carols, whercas the spring concert is comprised of numbers ranging from the novel to the operatic, from folk ballads to show tunes. The consistent quality of the choral work and the dedication of its members have made the Society one of the most active and talented organizations on campus.

CHORAL SOCIETY

Father Thomas Walsh, moderator and director of the Choral Society, has succeeded in creating a harmony of note. tone, and time through practice and hard work.

Our song speaks of the happy times . . . of the Autumn Interlude with its lilting music, elated voices and a swirl of carefree couples soaring over all for a golden night. It chants of the Winter Carnival, whitely splendid with its figures brightly garbed on pale slopes, of the brush of dancing feet, jinglebells and folksongs. A date for the Dinner Dance . . . snowflakes on a yellow gown and frostnipped hands clasped together to be warmed. Happy notes danced together writing evenings unforgetably in our memory . . . of these, and of all the happy days do we sing.

SOCIAL

Joe McHugh and Joanne Trainor look well pleased with the results of their sueeessful co-chairmanship of the Senior-Junior Dinner Dance.

The annual Senior-Junior Dinner Dance was held this year at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus. The memorable evening was completely successful both as a sparkling start to the spring social ealendar, and as the last event sponsored by the Class of 1963 before their graduation.

The music was fast and twisting, or romantie and waltzing, or a sharp Bossa Nova. To the quick rhythm of Ruby Newman's orchestra the seniors danced and danced, until the last waltz told them that one o'eloek had come and the evening was over.

THE AUTUMN INTERLUDE

Traditionally, the co-ed to reign over Merrimack College for the coming year has been chosen at the annual Harvest Ball. This year's dance, held in November at the Andover Country Club, was transformed into the semi-formal Autumn Interlude. Lovely Victoria Walsh from the class of '64 was chosen Miss Merrimack of 1963. Her court, comprised of co-eds from each class, consists of: Sue Krystiniak, '65; Linda Pepe, '66: Judy Lagace, '63; and Ann Dwyer, '64.

Charming "Tori" Walsh, Miss Merrimack of 1963, is a junior Business Administration major from Gladwyn. Pennsylvania. Our college is justifiably proud of its queen who is a shining example of beauty and graciousness.

The couples who danced to the dreamy music at this year's Student Council sponsored Autumn Interlude will agree that Sue and Dave, who "could've danced all night," exemplify the mood which prevailed.

As the candidates dance with their dates, an air of excitement spreads through the ballroom. Only the faces of the hopefuls exhibit the outer poise and tranquility so necessary for Miss Merrimack.

WINTER WEEKEND

A ride on a dog sled . . . hockey . . . a St. Bernard carved out of ice . . . skiing . . . a contest for Snow Queen, the long Washington's Day weekend added to snow gleaming in cold sunshine, and the annual Winter Weekend at Merrimack College became a social triumph. The campus fraternities, Phi Kappa Theta and Sigma Beta Kappa co-sponsored this celebration of a New England winter; to them, and to Otto Gallerani, the general chairman, goes the frost-nipped, happy appreciation of the student body.

An informal dance opened the Winter Weekend with a blast of twist music and easy enjoyment. The Ski-wear Fashion Show on Friday was followed by the judging of the snow sculpture entries. A semi-formal dance at which Bernice Barnaby was chosen as the Snow Queen ended the first full day of the Weekend. Saturday saw the Boston Hill ski meet and a hard-fought basketball game with Stonehill. The long anticipated climax to the Weekend came on Sunday when over 600 Merrimack students attended the concert given by Johnny Nash.

Sweet silent rest. My ears strain toward each whispered syllable of the Composer of my song. All sound must slumber in my throat until He awakens it to thought and meaning, structure and significance. What need have He and I of audience? This is our interlude. Its strain is not akin to my song, but a gentle echo of each movement. Now each note is held to its full value, each a song unto itself.

RELIGIOUS

RELIGIOUS LIFE

In commencing each Fall Semester with three days of Retreat, Merrimack gives its students the opportunity to prepare for the scholastic year with an appraisal of the past spiritual year. This year under the guidance of the Augustinian fathers, conferences were given by Rev. James Sherman, O.S.A., to commuting students, and by Rev. Donald Ammering, O.S.A., to the resident students. Community Mass and reception of Holy Communion closed the Retreat on the morning of the first class day.

Individual students may worship as part of the student body each Friday in the Collegiate Church of Christ the Teacher. Recitation of the dialogue Mass gives a community meaning which transcends each student's purpose in attending Holy Mass.

Although all the priests at Merrimack contribute to the spiritual welfare of the students, the direct responsibility for this is given to the chaplain. Rev. Donald Burt, O.S.A., and his assistant. Rev. Robert Wesson, O.S.A. have well fulfilled their duties in this office.

The beat quickens, the fervor rises, the music comes alive! Muscles glisten, stretch and yield . . . to thumping beat of rubber on varnished woods . . . to the whacking rhythm of white spheres racqueted skyward . . . to the smacking shock of stick and puck on white ice . . . to the slicing swish of sailboats through the waves. My song chimes to the quick rhythm of the fight song, to the exhorting voices of the cheerleaders. The tension heightens, the muscles tighten, the beat becomes taut. Voices sound the tune and chant the song of victory.

SPORTS

BASKETBALL

With arms, eyes and hopes lifted skyward and Warriors tap the lid off of a new season. St. Anselm's shown here was one of the two teams not to be scalped by Merrimack in its first thirteen games. The Blue and Gold copped the annual Babson Tournament, taking with them the M.V.P. and two all-star berths. Left: Sophomore sensation John Erickson is shown at the start of one of his patented-powerful drives.

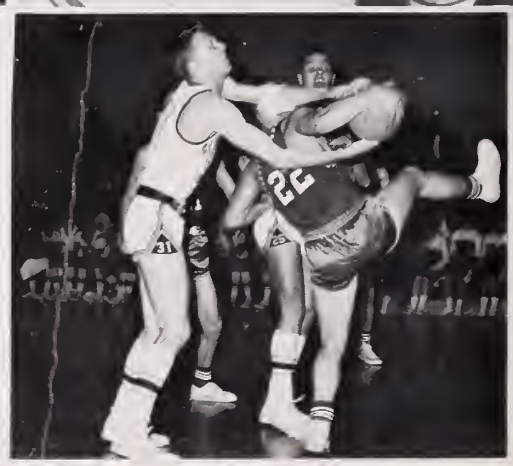
This is Captain Jerry Stopyra, who has been averaging just over 20 points per game. Jerry was named M.V.P. of the Babson Tournament and was instrnmental in Merrimack's upset win over Clark.

Above: Battling Bob Geary, having swept clear the boards, swings through the key with the aid of Jerry Stopyra's pick. Right: "Hey le'go, you're bustin' my arm" moans Plymouth's number 22. He gets no obvious sympathy from Morris, who is leading the cheers for Ron Hubbard's mayhem (and reaching for the other arm).



Tight nerves became courage . . .

Sideline huddle . . . sweat, plans, hope mingle freely . . . experienced voice . . . straining muscles . . . eager voice . . . now forget the bruises . . . let's set up those picks . . . how much time . . . we need more passing . . . here, cool off . . . don't let him inside . . . how many fouls . . . move that ball . . . let's go . . .!

HOCKEY

Surrounded but undaunted, Bill Mahoney drives home a lamp-lighter against powerful Providence. The Friars, one of the top teams in the East, were both surprised and stunned by the Warriors in this one, but managed a come from behind 3-2 victory to spoil Merrimack's home debut. The Blue and Gold atoned for the loss with three consecutive victories over Bowdoin, Pennsylvania and A.I.C. With only 2 seniors on the team, Coach Reynold's looks to the future with rose colored glasses.

A goalie: one who must not come off the ice; an acrobatic target when under attack, a lonely spectator when the puck is away. The first to be faulted: the last defense. Number One.
This is our goalie—Paul Downey.

GOLF TEAM

It's not that Jim Baxter is overconfident, in fact he isn't really that good. In spite of what he might tell you, Bobby Player, (no relation to Gary) is not making like a tee to get a closer shave. He lost his first bet.

Coach George Karam welcomes the anticipated return of Dave Callahan this spring. Dave is considered as good a golfer as can be found in the Merrimack Valley. Matches on tap for this season include those with Providence, St. Anselms, Stonehill, Lowell State, Lowell Tech, Suffolk and Assumption.

We could swear that Pete Grogan's putter had its origin somewhere in Pre-Neanderthal time, but the way Peter drops in those "crowd pleasers" he wouldn't trade it for Arnold Palmer's autograph. The tall red head is the team's "long-ball" hitter, but is the first to admit that many hours on the practice greens are needed to get within birdie range.

TENNIS TEAM

With the racquet-wielding talent of newcomer Hank Smith, and returnees "Moe" Fournier and John Cox added to an already powerful nucleus, predictions lean toward a most successful record. Under the capable and experienced eye of coach Armand Gosselin, Merrimack's talented Tennis Squad is looking forward to what will be an excellent, if not undefeated season.

Phil Breen demonstrates the agility that helps to carry the team through another successful season.

"Now if we all put hour heads together, maybe we can find the gate and get out of this place." Exit—St. Anselms.

Jack Hogan, shown taking another gate in stride as he hurtles baseward to place among the top finishers. Jack is considered by many to be the most improved skier on the squad.

Fr. Walsh has labored tirelessly to mould a ski team worthy to compete with the best in the East. 1963 has seen his efforts bear fruit as both men's and women's teams have been competing in leagues with other schools such as: Harvard, Amherst, M.I.T., B.U., B.C., and others.

This year, Merrimack sponsored its first invitational meet at which time it finished fifth in a field of 14.

Captain Dick "Whitset" Letarte has consistently proven to be as fine a skier as can be found in the area. Here he takes time out from a practice run to show the cameraman why. While he won't admit to being born on Boston Hill, Dick does not deny that he was raised there.

SKI TEAM

Looking as much the part of an "Ole Salt" as we could possibly find on an inland campus is Tim Samway, who has led the sails of Blue and Gold to an unheralded championship.

SAILING

As an associate member of the New England Intercollegiate Sailing Association, Merrimack has met and defeated Brown, Harvard; Holy Cross, M.I.T., Northeastern, Rhode Island, Trinity, Wesleyan and Yale and has won the championship of its division. Having accomplished this, the team expects to be promoted to full standing this year.

Cap'n an' his mates might well be he title of this one. The photographer swears that he heard Tim telling the girls: "Now that there is a sail, and when the wind eatches it the boat moves." We've always advoeated starting at the beginning, but really!!!!

With both wind and water nearly calm, one of our crews drifts baek toward its moorings after a day of sun-blessed exereise. With the season only two weeks away, praetiee melts problems into winning habits.

This year, Father "Bart" McGinnis moulded what might have been the most powerful football team in Merrimack's history. Combining the unbelievably "long bomb" with an earthshaking defense, the Bay State Packers swept to a 10-0 record. Usually an offensive threat, Harvey Rowe is shown dragging P.K.T.'s title hopes earthward.

In spite of pressure brought to bear by S.B.K.'s defensive end. Larry Murray. the hustling blocking of Jim Machakos and "Gino" Rozzi keep all hands off of quarterback Perreault long enough for him to get off his pass. What happened on the oher end of the aerial is almost anybody's guess.

INTRAMURALS

One of the most popular of all campus activities is the Intramural Athletic Program. Well-organized leagues in football, basketball, and softball, provide ample opportunity for student participation. The crowds that usually attend these games attests to the popularity and spirit which greets the entire program. Many are the cuts and bruises but nobody seems to mind, least of all the spectators. The friendly rivalries that spring up are enjoyed by all and even the faculty enter into the contests. Rather than slowing down the actions, this usually lends an added fierceness to the play and seldom is any consideration given to these elderly participants.

Mud and grit, flying footballs, and first downs—Both men determined to win: But here offense overcame defense when critical yardage meant victory.

The crucial tag — but too late—as Al bangs up the middle for twenty yards and another first down. The tense and hard fought skirmishes which are typical of most games is keenest felt in the ever present rivalry that exists between the opposing fraternities.

At least living up to the first half of his team's name, Dave Callahan of the Shooting Stars lets one go from the corner. Prediction: The ball will eventually come down.

Flunkie and Magician centers scrape the ceiling in this jump. This league's attire surely didn't lack variety. From Bermudas to sweat pants; from bathing suits to . . . well, almost anything.

"Uh . . . excuse me, fellas, but don't you think we should all get a chance? After all, just because you're the tallest ones around here . . . fellas?"

This is a tribute to dedication, to the unselfish, to the faithful, to the hopeful, to the anxious. This is a tribute to the hoarse throat, the ringing head and the occasional black eye. As much a part of sport as the heralded hero, the unsung spectator rises and falls with his team but is powerless to control its destiny. Without him sport is empty.

MERRIMACK COLLEGE

GRADUATES

Seniors, blend the final movement-composed. Bearers of the baton, coordinate. The tone, wise, yet still wondering, verbs of the past, of the future, wring from every measure each beat of the present.

Exams, comprehensive, final, like life to be respected, to be conquered, to be lived in our song-completed, bursting toward the future, echoing in the past. Seniors, images of the always,

to be remembered.

Dedication and Co-eds Day . . .

The planting of a tree, the raising of a newly dedicated flag, and the presenting of a class gift comprise the proud tradition of Dedication Day which is transferred to every succeeding Junior Class. The Christian and democratic characteristics of this tradition will ever continue to be cherished by the faculty and students of Merrimack.

Our annual co-eds day was a tremendous success. This year's theme was the Roaring Twenties and the girls turned out in full dress. Kathy, Ruthie, Nancy, and Karen seem unaware of Paul's wondering gaze. Do you really think that television will replace the movies Paul?

The very least that can be said about our female throwbacks is that they had courage. Besides having the nerve to come to school dressed like that they have the gall to shake reproving fingers at us. Unite men. Break out the flasks and the raccoon coats.

Connie seems to be trying to tell our photographer something. Could it be that she doesn't want her picture taken? This is really going to be hard to explain in some future year, Connie, when your children find this picture and ask you how old you really are.

Junior Prom . . .

The most successful Junior Prom yet was held in April at the beautiful Rolling Green Motor Inn in Andover. The traditional climax to Junior Week was an evening of unforgettable beauty and entertainment. Handsome couples "danced 'till three" to the wonderful music of Ruby Newman. The high point of the evening was the selection of the Queen, lovely Ann Marie O'Conner, and her court. A delicious roast beef dinner followed and then more dancing. Thanks to the tireless efforts of the Co-Chairmen, Maxine Seretna and Larry Gaudreau, the entire affair was a tremendous success and one that will live forever in the happy memories of those who attended.

The coronation of the Queen was the climax to a wonderful evening. The selection of this year's queen, beautiful Ann Marie O'Conner, was greeted with joy and approval. Ann Marie still appears to be a little surprised by her selection.

One of the highlights of the evening was an impromptu twist contest. Phil is really going at it and if he hadn't forgotten his date he would have been a sure winner. Oh well, Phil. Perhaps Steve Allen will see this picture.

◀ Tim Samway and Maxine Seretna are a happy couple as they leave for an evening of entertainment. Maxine looks especially radiant, but then why shouldn't she. Not many girls are given a ten pound corsage. Do you plan to wear it Max or is Tim going to carry it all night?

OFFBEATS . . .

Our song pauses when it speaks of Junior Week . . . it remembers the rings and the parents, the tree and the flag raising . . . it chants of our flappers and their slender cigarette holders . . . of the races and the trophies . . . of the Prom and rustling gowns . . . and it whispers of new meanings and responsibilities . . .

CLASS OFFICERS

The responsibility of coordinating all class activities is assigned to its officers. This year's leaders: Joseph Machera, President; Ann Marie O'Connor, Vice President; Patricia Hurley, Secretary; Kathleen Nelligan, Treasurer, have worked diligently on such affairs as the Dinner Dance and Graduation. They have shown their ability to accept leadership and work effectively with each other and with the class. In the future these four will be our main connection with fellow alumni and Merrimack undergraduates. We, the class of 1963, offer them every encouragement and cooperation.

Nationwide recognition has been given by Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities to twenty members of the Class of 1963. These students were accepted by the organization after being officially recommended by Merrimack College.

In making its selection the campus nominating committee considered the student's scholarship, his participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, his citizenship, his service to the College. and his indication of future prominence.

Hey, Baby—How'd you like a little punch?

SOUR NOTES

Day ends . . . books rest lonely in silent shadows.

I've got the world on a string!

Don't try to look so innocent, Fred. That cigarette is burning a hole in your pocket.

Jim Ward and his music provided many enjoyable hours during our four years, and who of us will ever forget his performances on Parent's Night or as the Stage Manager in Our Town.

A final measure of scattered notes, offbeats, echoes of chords that were, and of themes that could have been . . . and now my song is complete. Its theme is well fashioned.

But my song will never end. It may pause briefly, but only to allow new voices to enter while older ones leave. The melody is with me—now soft, now loud, now a whispered fragment. Through all the days as long as there is me, my song will remain.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 1963 MERRIMACKAN is the product of long weeks and months of hard work. Conceived in the hope that it would be an accurate portrayal of the last of four years, the staff sincerely believes that it has accomplished this end. We would at this time like to publicly thank the following for their cooperation and assistance.

- Rev. Donald X. Burt, O.S.A.; We thank you for your endless enthusiasm and the constant reassurance that the knowledge of your presence gave us.
- Mr. John Ursprung, Jr., of William T. Cooke Publishing, Inc.; We thank you for your genuine and vital interest in us and for your willingness to cooperate with us in our more hectic moments.
- Mr. Robert Talbot of Loring Studios: We thank you for your patience and understanding in the face of our wildest demands and we wish you the best of success in your new endeavors.
- To the Staff: We thank you for all that you have done and would especially like to thank Mike Twomey, Joe McHugh, Al Conti, Jean Carey, Maxine Seretna, Laurel Pelkey, Frank Welch, Anne Marie O'Connor, Ted Chiricos, and Don Misenti. Without these people this book would not have been possible for it is wholly a result of their willingness, enthusiasm, and talents.
